

Financial Affidavit for F-1 Applicants and Dependents

The Department of Homeland Security requires that prospective F-1 students have the financial resources to live and study in the United States throughout the duration of their F-1 status. This includes being able to cover the cost of tuition, books, living expenses, travel and health insurance. Complete this form and submit it with valid financial documents (bank statements) along with your F-1 admission documents to istudent@csc.edu. For more information on Evidence of Financial ability, visit studyinthestates.dhs.gov/financial-ability

Note: We understand that every student's living situation and expenses are different. However, each F-1 applicant must show evidence of financial ability of at least $25,897 USD.
