

What is the Letter of Accommodation (LOA)?

- Your LOA is an official letter from CSCC's Accessibility Services office, which lists your approved accommodations.
- Your LOA is what you need to present to your instructor in order to receive your accommodations.
- Accessibility Services will email you a copy of your LOA after you have completed your Intake Interview.

How to Use Your LOA

- Once you receive your LOA, you will need to email your instructors a copy or show them in person. It is recommended that you do both, so that you have a record of submitting it.

*AS does not send LOAs to instructors – it is your responsibility to inform your instructor that you are eligible for accommodations.***

- You are eligible for your accommodations only after you have shown your LOA to your instructor. Accommodations are not granted retroactively.
- Follow up with your instructor to discuss your accommodations and ensure you both understand how to put your accommodations into place. If you are uncertain, contact your Access Advisor for clarification.
- If you are approved for the accommodation of Double Time in the Writing Center, you must present your LOA – either in person or via email – to the Writing Center Coordinator prior to making an appointment in order to receive your allotted time.
- You do not need to re-register with Accessibility Services every semester – once you are registered with our office, you're eligible to receive your accommodations for as long as you are a student at CSCC.
  - If your diagnosis changes and you believe you may qualify for additional accommodations, you may contact your Access Advisor to discuss this possibility.
- Save a copy of your LOA on your computer so you can easily access it whenever you need it.
- If you lose your LOA, obtain another copy by contacting Accessibility Services via email (disability@csc.edu) as soon as possible to request a copy.
